Re: FOIA Request NLRB-2022-000320

Dear Mr. Kevin Haynes:

This is in response to your request, under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), 5 U.S.C. § 552, received on December 18, 2021, in which you seek all records in 18-CA-179437; Cleveland Integrity Services, Inc.. You assumed financial responsibility for the processing of your request in the amount of $200.00.

We acknowledged your request on December 18, 2021. In a telephone conversation and subsequent email with a member of the FOIA staff on January 3, 2021, you modified your request by limiting it to the formal records and the position statement for this case.

A search of the Agency's electronic casehandling system, NxGen, has been conducted. This search has yielded 60 pages of responsive, releasable records from the requested case file, which are attached.

After a review, I have determined that portions of the attached records are exempt from disclosure under Exemptions 6 and 7(C) of the FOIA (5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6) and (b)(7)(C)). Specifically, redactions have been made to protect the privacy interests of individuals named in the records. These redactions were made pursuant to FOIA Exemption 6, which pertains to information the release of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, and FOIA Exemption 7(C), which pertains to records or information compiled for law enforcement purposes, the release of which could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6) and (b)(7)(C).

In addition, five pages, consisting of Exhibit B to the Employer's position statement, were withheld in full under Exemptions 6 and 7(C)) since their disclosure could constitute an unwarranted invasion of privacy.

Exemption 6 permits agencies to withhold information about individuals in "personnel and medical and similar files" where the disclosure of the information

“would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.” 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6). Am. Immigration Lawyers Ass’n v. Exec. Office for Immigration Review, 830 F.3d 667, 673 (D.C. Cir. 2016). The “files” requirement covers all information that “applies to a particular individual.” Ayuda, Inc. v. FTC, 70 F.Supp.3d 247,264 (D.D.C. 2014) (citing U.S. Dep’t of State v. Wash. Post Co., 456 U.S. 595, 601-02 (1982)). “‘Similar files’ has been interpreted broadly to include ‘[g]overnment records on an individual which can be identified as applying to that individual.’” Pavement Coatings Technology Council v. United States Geological Survey, 2019 WL 7037527, *8 (D.D.C. Dec. 19, 2019) (quoting Wash. Post Co., 456 at 602). See Judicial Watch, Inc. v. FDA, 449 F.3d 141, 198-199 (D.C. Cir. 2006) (Exemption 6 may exempt not just files, but personal information such as names and addresses). Exemption 7(C) permits agencies to withhold information compiled for law enforcement purposes where disclosure of the information “could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.” 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(7)(C); U.S. Dep’t of Justice v. Reporters Comm. for Freedom of the Press, 489 U.S. 749, 756 (1989), see also Brennan Center for Justice at New York University School of Law v. DOJ, 2020 WL 1189091, *3-4, (D.D.C. Mar. 12, 2020) (reaffirming that Exemption 7(C) imposes a “lower bar for withholding” than Exemption 6,).

Application of Exemptions 6 and 7(C) requires a two-part balancing test that considers: (1) whether there is a legitimate personal privacy interest in the requested information, and, if so; (2) whether there is a countervailing public interest in disclosure that outweighs the privacy interest. Judicial Watch, Inc. v. Nat’l Archives & Records Admin., 214 F. Supp. 3d 43, 58 (D.D.C. 2016), aff’d, 876 F.3d 346 (D.C. Cir. 2017), citing Nat’l Archives & Records Admin. v. Favish, 541 U.S. 157, 171 (2004). With respect to the first factor, the Supreme Court has described Exemptions 6 and 7(C) as reflecting privacy interests in “avoiding disclosure of personal matters,” Reporters Comm., 489 U.S. at 762, maintaining the “individual’s control of information concerning his or her person,” id. at 763, avoiding “disclosure of records containing personal details about private citizens,” id. at 766, and “keeping personal facts away from the public eye,” id. at 769. Consistent with these concerns, privacy interests have been recognized for individuals named in a law enforcement investigation, including third parties mentioned in investigatory files, as well as witnesses and informants who provide information during the course of an investigation. See Rugiero v. U.S. Dep’t of Justice, 257 F.3d 534, 552 (6th Cir. 2001); Nation Magazine v. U.S. Customs Serv., 71 F.3d 885, 894 (D.C. Cir. 1995); and Van Bourg, Allen, Weinberg & Roger v. NLRB, 751 F.2d 982, 985 (9th Cir. 1985).

The withheld records are exempt from disclosure under the above balancing test. They are ‘[g]overnment records on an individual which can be identified as applying to that individual, and contain individuals’ names, addresses, and other identifying information that fit squarely within the types of privacy interests that Exemptions 6 and 7(C) were intended to protect from disclosure. By contrast, I perceive no countervailing public interest in disclosure. The public's interest in disclosure depends on "the extent to which disclosure would serve the 'core purpose of the FOIA,' which is 'contribut[ing] significantly to public understanding of the operations or activities of the government.'" U.S. Dep't of Def. v. Fed. Labor Relations Auth., 510 U.S. 487, 495 (1994) (emphasis in original), quoting Reporters Comm., 489 U.S. at 775. As the Supreme Court further explained in Nat'l Archives & Records Admin., 541 U.S. at 172, to defeat a privacy interest there must be some indication that the "public interest sought to be advanced is a significant one, an interest more specific than having the information for its own sake . . . [and that] the information is likely to advance that interest." No such public interest is evident here that outweighs the private interests identified above. For the foregoing reasons, the records are protected from disclosure under Exemptions 6 and 7(C).

For the purpose of assessing fees, we have placed you in Category A, commercial use requester. This category refers to requests "from or on behalf of a person who seeks information for a use or purpose that furthers the commercial, trade, or profit interests of the requester or the person on whose behalf the request is made, which can include furthering those interests through litigation." NLRB Rules and Regulations, 29 C.F.R. § 102.117(d)(1)(v). Consistent with this fee category, you "will be assessed charges to recover the full direct costs of searching for, reviewing for release, and duplicating the records sought." 29 C.F.R. § 102.117(d)(2)(ii)(A). Charges are $9.25 per quarter-hour of professional time. 29 C.F.R. § 102.117(d)(2)(i).

Two hours of professional time was expended in searching for and reviewing for release the requested material. Accordingly, please remit $74.00.
